Who we work with and how:

We do not practice medicine or provide medical advice. This web site is not intended to and does not provide any advice to diagnose, cure, mitigate, treat, or prevent disease, or affect the structure or any function of the human body. Our services and tools are specific to safety and patient satisfaction results obtained through licensed health care providers.

We are in the business of providing education and training services to and developing, improving and distributing products and safety innovations for licensed health care providers in order to improve the experience of patients receiving injections of dermal and soft tissue fillers. If you are a consumer requesting information, please contact your health care provider. We develop and market our own and distribute third party products that improve patient injection but we do not provide or distribute Dermal Fillers, Neurotoxin or any other pharmaceutical or biologic products .

We are not affiliated with any manufacturer or agent or distributor of a manufacturer of any Dermal Filler, Neurotoxin or any other pharmaceutical or biologic product. We reserve the right to accept research or other funding from any product manufacturer or distributor and, if we do so, will use our reasonable efforts to disclose those relationships by updates to this web site.

Regarding Intellectual Property:

We are not responsible for maintaining the confidentiality or restricting the use of any information which is disclosed to us through this web site or otherwise. We accept any such information with the understanding that we are free to use such information in any manner we chose without obligation to the person who disclosed it to us. Please bear in mind before contacting us that we are a products innovation company and are in the process of developing multiple products at any given time. Disclosure of your information to us will not imply or constitute an agreement of confidentiality. Product development is very competitive. Please take appropriate precautions before communicating any product innovations with us or any other outside party.
